no breaks is that so do you have a problem with that no should I some people do who are some people good point was it I took it that way so what does that mean what does what mean no breaks well there's a tendency to do one thing and then to give yourself a break to give yourself a breather exactly we shouldn't do that no why not because there's more to be done haven't we been over this yes but it bears repeating alright well you've repeated it and now for the doing what is left to be done plenty didn't you make a list didn't you make a list a list is only as good as the paper you write it on what does that mean it means I think I lost my list well what did you have written on it I'm not going through this again through what through this process it can take an hour just to figure out what should go on that list you don't think other people have lists where's your list I mean other other people and where are they on the internet you can't trust the internet the trustworthy part of the internet it sounds suspicious well what would you have me do otherwise if you went through the steps once and can't remember where they led you then maybe you didn't walk them all that correctly or all that thoroughly or all that attentively or intentionally maybe they bear repeating or rewalking whichever one it is that's very didactic of you isn't it hard enough to figure out this figure out what whatever it is we're doing now if this is the hardest thing I do all year then I'm lucky what about next year next year will be easier because we know what things getting too hard too fast feels like we'll be prepared I hope I hope does this count as a break this this what we're doing right now maybe it does should we stop doing it then let's savor it for just another minute why we don't really get breaks anymore might as well enjoy one or one close to one while we have it how long are we allowed to enjoy it we should stop before it gets too cozy before it gets too sweet before we forget why we take breaks this is hard if this is the hardest thing we do we're lucky I don't know if lucky is the right word I don't think it is let's not let this be the hardest thing then is it over yes what's something harder we could do?
